Once the control has processed the input, the form has a default value that needs to be changed based on the results of the processing.

I don't want the form to be submitted after the processing is complete, and there isn't really any state I need to save to the form. I am able to trigger the desired function in the control just fine, but how can I access the form so that I can change the default values? Here's the code I have so far:

ng-controller="RoutesCtrl" ng-controller="RoutesCtrl"="$scope" class="ng-scope" ng-controller="RoutesCtrl" ng-controller="RoutesCtrl"="$scope" class="ng-scope"> reset submit
